

Testing and Assessment Services

CU Denver students, community clients, and children are able to receive psychological and psychoeducational assessment services in the clinic, including testing for Learning Disability (LD), Attention Deficit/Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD), behavior disorders, and psychiatric disorders.

All assessments are completed by doctoral students in school psychology under the supervision of a licensed psychologist.

The cost for assessment services varies based on the amount of testing provided. Depending on the length of your assessment, the cost will range from $400-$450. Only credit cards are accepted as payment.

To set up an intake appointment, please call us at 303-315-7270.

- Autism

The CU Denver Student and Community Counseling Center is a counseling and psychology clinic and training facility that is part of the Counseling and School Psychology programs in the School of Educational and Human Development at the University of Colorado Denver.

The assessment clinicians are doctoral students in School Psychology who are supervised by a Licensed Psychologist.

Additional Information

Psychological assessment can last up to several hours depending on the age and needs of the client. Once the assessment is completed, your clinician will write up a comprehensive report and then will schedule a feedback session with you to share your results. A copy of the report will be provided to you as part of this service. Payment is due prior to the feedback session.

Costs range from $400-$450

At certain times through the year we may have a waiting list. We will give you an estimate as to when your assessment will be conducted at intake.
